Reasons Why Your Dog is Losing Tail Hair | Hill's Pet

Loss of hair on a dog's tail can be indicative of a few possible problems. While a proper diagnosis cannot be made without an exam, Dr. Judy Morgan, DVM, an integrative veterinarian who runs two animal hospitals in New Jersey, says that fleas are the first thing she looks for whenever she sees hair loss on the tail or tail base. This is particularly the case during warm weather months, which is prime flea season, she explained.
